

Private university coming to Tucson has local business leaders lining up to collaborate

By Gabriela Rico
Arizona Daily Star

The Catholic University of America, based in Washington D.C., is opening its first satellite campus this fall in a unique partnership with Pima Community College, giving Tucsonans the opportunity to get a bachelor's degree from a private, Catholic university locally.

Click the link to learn more about the Catholic University of America's hybrid program.